

Enjoying the visit

Just as climate change is related to nature change, it is also true that human change is dependent on society's change. Seasonal change is the product of nature, the transformation of generations. The descendants' tasks are inherent in the remembering and visiting of ancestors. On the first days of spring, on March 1, the students of Group 303 of the faculty of Management of Water Resources visited Zangiota. The aim of the visit was to organize pilgrimage through holy places in our country and to educate young people about the national values.
