

Joint degree Master program in the specialization “SmartAgriculture” and “Geoinformatics” with foreign university will be launched in Uzbekistan.

The group of delegation of the Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers visited to Obuda University in Hungary on 1st of March 2019.

During the meeting Prof. BakhadirMirzaev,a vice-rector of the Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers and Prof. Kovacs Levente, a vice-rector of Obuda University discussed the current and future international collaboration between institutions.

Through the meeting there were discussed to organizetrainingsfor staff and MSc students in sphere of “Smart Agriculture”, “Geoinformatics”, “Land Management” and “Mechatronics” in framework of joint program between the Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers and Obuda University. Moreover, establishing and strengthening the new international cooperation in framework of ERASMUS+ International Credit Mobility and Hungarian Governmental “StipendiumHungaricum” Scholarship Programs.

Furthermore, from 2019/2020 academic year there were agreed to start trainings forMSc studentsin framework Double degree and Joint degree study programs in sphere of “SmartAgriculture”and “Geoinformatics”.