

Iftar table at the branch

Iftar is a custom associated with fasting in Islam. In Islam, holding an iftar banquet with the participation of fasting people during the days of fasting is considered a noble deed. A hadith narrated by Imam Termizi says: "He who opens the mouth of a fasting person receives a reward from the one who fasts. So, in order to trade it is necessary to open the mouth of a fasting person.

At the initiative of the director of the Bukhara branch of TIAME Shavkat Yakhanovich Imomov in strict compliance with the quarantine rules in the territory of the branch for the teaching staff and students living in the student dormitory, an iftar was organized.
