

Online training seminar

On July 6, 2020, at the Center for Advanced Studies and Retraining of Personnel at the Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers, an online training seminar on the topic "Sustainability assessment of the waterenergy-food" was organized for students of the advanced training and retraining course for the direction of organization and management of water resources nexus in the case of irrigated agriculture: A systematic review ". The online training seminar was organized in collaboration with the Humboldt University of Berlin and a senior researcher at the Center for Agricultural Landscape and Land Use Research. Leibniz (ZALF, Germany), coordinator of the research project "WEFUz - Assessment of the sustainability of water, energy and food security in irrigated agriculture: the case of rivers in Uzbekistan", associate professor of the Humboldt University Hamidov Ahmadjon Muhammadkhanovich.

Press service of TIAME