

A good etiquette is the decoration of good manners

Definitely, each nation has its own immortal traditions and values. Our traditions, values and customs, which were passed down from our ancestors for centuries express the symbol of our national identity and are of great value and longevity. This is the culture of clothing, each nation has its own immortal traditions and values. Appearance is a basic premise that shows what kind of personality we are, and that's why this activity is important for our lifestyle, with this case each university team must follow the dress code.

Team members are asked to dress according to the rules of higher education institution. With this in mind, on October 8, 2021, at Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers, the chairman of the Council for Women's Affairs Z.K. Ismailova held a meeting with the staff of the Faculty of Land Reclamation on the topic "Dress code is the decoration of good behavior." The meeting was chaired by Z.F. Beknazarova, members of the Council, professors, teachers and students. Chairman of the Council of Women of the Institute Z.K in her speech mentioned about dress code, spirituality and taste, as well as defining her worldview as are important factors for a person's success. At the same time, they expressed their opinion on the internal regulations of the institute, their ethics and gave advice on problems related to the uniform of our students. At the end of the event, Z.F. Beknazarova have discussed some particular topics with the teaching staff on the implementation of the work plan and further activities. The event was very interesting, with suggestions and questions asked by a number of active students. We hope that the regularity of such events will increase the efficiency of this very work and will contribute to the further development of spiritual work at the institute.
