

Makhallas are places which associates present and the future

The origin of the term "neighborhood" also goes back centuries, and this Arabic word comes from the Uzbek word "mahallun", which means "place". In different regions it is called mahallot (place), guzar, jamaa, elat, elod. But this area is not only a historical place, but also a place that connects present and future. Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers, Faculty of Energy Supply for Agriculture and Water Resources, Tashkent, Mirzo-Ulugbek District.

In order to develop the cooperation with the makhalla Mirzakalon Ismailiy, the youth of the makhalla effectively uses sports sections. As a result of the widespread involvement of young people in sports, crime and juvenile delinquency has dropped sharply. At the same time, the makhalla serves as a symbol of our nationality and a social space that transmits values and traditions from generation to generation in order to raise our self-awareness, national pride and patriotism. Raising the prestige of a mahalla is not only an economic and social, but also an educational and tremendous spiritual task, and the necessary conditions are created for it to serve as a reliable support and influential force in the development of civil society.

"Agriculture and water management

Youth of the Faculty "Energy supply"

Deputy Dean O. Khabibullaev

Press Service of TIAME