

International scientific conference "Arch Eco" in Poland

On June 11, 2021 at the initiative of Cracow University of Technology in the Republic of Poland through the online platform Zoom was organized IX International Scientific Conference Arch-Eco. With opening remarks, the conference was opened by the First Vice Rector of the Cracow University of Technology, representatives of Ukrainian and Turkish universities, and Professor Obid Bobokulovich Tursunov of the Department of Electricity Supply and Renewable Energy Sources. It is nice that the attention to the professors and teachers of our institute is growing in the international arena.

The first-year doctoral student of the department, Nuryslom Abduganiev and first-year master's students Rahimjon Kobilov, Sayedbek Saminov, Giyosbek Khasanov and Islam Karimov took part in the conference under the guidance of Professor Obid Tursunov and the head of the department Dilshod Kodirov. In addition, in the section "Technologies of the future", moderated by Professor Obid Tursunov, the great interest of the conference participants was aroused by the first-year doctoral student and a master's student of the Electricity Supply and Renewable Energy Sources Department.
