

Water management reform

On October 15, 2021, was organized a seminar on the implementation of water management reforms Australia - Uzbekistan. At this seminar were discussed the problems of water resources management of the two countries, their experience, and plans for the future. The event was actively attended by talented students and undergraduates of our institute with their questions and suggestions. The organization of such workshops will be of great importance for both countries and will serve as a significant exchange of experience in water resources management in the future.

The rational and efficient use of water resources is one of the pressing problems of today, the study of foreign experience in this direction, the exchange of views will give positive results in preventing possible mistakes and omissions, supporting practical projects, as well as their implementation.
