

We invite you to study in the direction of undergraduate education 5410500 - Technology of storage and primary processing of agricultural products (by type of product).

Starting from the 2020-2021 academic year, the Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers announces admission to training in the direction of undergraduate education 5410500-Technology of storage and primary processing of agricultural products (by product type) as part of the Faculty of Agricultural Mechanization It is planned to enroll 50 students in the first year. Dear applicants, we ask you to apply for this direction.

The agriculture of our republic grows sweet fruits and vegetables rich in various vitamins. The storage and processing of these fruits and vegetables are one of the most pressing problems today. The need and demand for specialists in this area are great.