

Seminar-training on the topic "Hard work" - "Broad cooperation" - "Good results"

On May 18, 2021, a training seminar dedicated to increasing scientific potential, publications of scientific research articles in foreign journals was held for the teaching staff, young scientists, doctoral students and researchers. The moderator of the online webinar was Karimov Bakhtiyor Kurambaevich, Professor of the Department of Ecology and Water Resources Management. He made a presentation on the topic "Hard work" - "Broad cooperation" - "Good results". About 100 teachers, young scientists and researchers attended at the seminar.

The seminar provided information on the available resources of international scientific databases (Scopus and WoS), which are necessary in scientific research and writing articles. The knowledge gained from the seminar will help master the resources and work in the abstract-bibliographic, scientometric (bibliometric) databases Scopus and Web of Science.
