

An event in the student dormitory

April 16, 2021 the psychologist of the Institute M.K. Mukhamedova organized for the students of the student dormitory <sup>1</sup> 3 of the Faculty of Land Management an event on "If you have a profession, you will have bread. The event talked about the role of manual labor and its psychological aspects. The concept of manual labor is not synonymous with physical labor. In manual work of high culture creative thought is vividly manifested. The more complex the technique and technology of labor, the more elementary skills of manual labor precede the mastery of technology. Manual labor plays a big role in the development of abstract thinking as well.

When a person is engaged in some physical labor, he/she develops creative abilities, he/she gets inspiration. Creative, out-of-the-box thinking develops, and artistic taste develops. A person learns to combine colors and materials and develops creativity. The students were also offered the idea that it would benefit the family budget as well. At the event, Deputy Dean for Youth Affairs of the Faculty H. Eshova also shared her thoughts on the role of manual labor in women's lives.
