

An open lesson on riverbeds

On April 24, 2019 a lesson was organized for the group of students of group 106 "Water agriculture and management" under the guidance of associate professor Nazaraliev Dilshod Valijonovich, the head of the department "Hydrology and Hydrogeology" on "Land Hydrology".

The open lesson was conducted on the subject "River Lines". After the beginning of the lesson, the teacher D. Nazaraliev distributed the distribution material prepared for the subject and explained the main part of the new topic. Then, with the help of traditional lectures, the next topic was clarified by the teacher through vital examples and illustrations. The floods and floods in Samarkand, Kashkadarya and Jizzakh regions have already been clarified. Moreover, during the lesson the head of our state Shavkat Mirziyoev said, "Preparing young people for leadership is one of our main goals!".

The open lesson was read by dean of the faculty "Water agriculture and management" Muqimov Zarif Majlisovich and employee of "Quality of education" department Farrukh Kattakulov. In the end, the students answered "BLITS QUESTIONS" on the subject. Observers shared their positive feedback on modern pedagogy and innovative approaches used by the teacher at the end of the course. We are grateful to the teacher who has been prepared for this lesson in the name of the group, and will continue to ask for a larger number of OPCWs in the future.
