

Corruption is the great enemy of the society

A similar event was held today at the Faculty of Land Management. Dean of the Faculty of Land Management Sh. Narbaev, Deputy Dean for Youth Affairs H. Eshova, Head of the Department of Land Management A. Altiev, faculty students took part in the event. As a guest of the event, the responsible officer of the Anti-Corruption Agency Latipov Obidzhon Asamiddinovich acquainted the audience with his report. We need to build a future without corruption together, for this we must first get the education, work together to eradicate any form of corruption. Within the framework of the report, the development and implementation of state programs and other programs in the field of anti-corruption, coordination and interaction of bodies and organizations carrying out anti-corruption activities, improvement of legal literacy and legal culture of students anti-corruption were organized. The society was provided with the information on the development and implementation of measures to form uncompromising relations.

Besides that there are also a number of measures to ensure the effectiveness of measures to prevent, identify, suppress corruption offenses, eliminate their consequences, their causes and conditions, collect and analyze information on the status and trends of corruption. In order to fulfill the tasks there have been identified as monitoring the implementation of anti-corruption measures in education, assessing the effectiveness of existing organizational, practical and legal mechanisms in this area, improving anti-corruption legislation and improving work in this area, corruption has been identified. In accordance with Articles 210, 211, 212 of the Criminal Code of the Republic of Uzbekistan, the inevitability of responsibility has been explained to teachers and students.

Indeed, corruption is a social phenomenon rooted in shortcomings in the organization of civil service and in the special psychology of civil servants. This indicates the need to take administrative, legal and organizational measures against corruption. In short, we all have the same responsibility in the fight against corruption. After all, corruption is a relative of the development of society. The event was well warmly accepted by the participants of the event and they were distributed with presents. Students received answers to their questions from experts.

The information was provided by Hurriyet Eshova, Deputy Dean for Youth Affairs of the Faculty.

Press Service of TIAME