

Guidance - preparing for life

Finding one's bearings in the world of professions is difficult, especially for a young person who has left school. It is important for the young person to choose a profession that is important to him or her, necessary for society and relevant to the needs and interests of the labour market. Vocational guidance is designed to help young people find their place in life.

On 27 February 2021, Professor N.E. Boboevich of the Department of Ecology and Water Resources Management organized a meeting with students of 11th grade of secondary school No.27 of Mirzo-Ulugbek district. He told the students about the faculties and directions of the institute.
