

Encyclopedia of our contentment

An event devoted to the 26th anniversary of the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan was held under the name "Constitution - the encyclopedia of our contentment" in the 2nd dormitory of the institute. The Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan was adopted on December 8, 1992. On April 24, 2003 some amendments and addenda were introduced into it. It has been worked out based on the experience of developed countries. Thus, it appeared to have reflected the will and spirit of the people of this land, its public consciousness and level of culture. Constitution has imbibed fundamental ideas and principles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Constitution of 1992 consists of 6 sections that include 26 chapters, and 128 articles. Its distinctive feature is that, that it has ensured the accountability of state bodies and authorities before public, that is, the priority of interests of each citizen has been legally maintained and further guaranteed. The event was led by the docent of the department of humanitarian sciences Kh.I.Azimov. the following teachers participated in the event: Polatova Kh.A., Nigmanov R.B., Khakimova M.N., Botirova Kh.E., Mamadaliyeva B.A., O'rishev A.E. Also, the students of the faculty of Hydrotechnical Construction actively took part in the event.

The news of Dilorom Sagdullayeva, psychologist, the educator-pedagogue of the 2nd dormitory

Rakhimboy Jumaniyozov, the press secretary of the institute