

Women's health is the wealth of society

On June 29, 2020, an online webinar was organized at the Institute on the topic "Women's health - the wealth of society." The webinar was attended by doctors of the highest category of the Tashkent City Center for Reproductive Health M.Azimova and K.Abdimuminova, as well as the faculty of the institute. M. Azimova, an obstetrician-gynecologist of the highest category, spoke about the need to increase socio-political activity, legal and medical culture among women, about the level of access to medical services for women, mothers and children, as well as about the advantages and opportunities created for them.

In addition, in order to further improve the system of providing modern high-tech specialized medical care to women of reproductive age, pregnant women and children, as well as in accordance with the Concept for the Development of the Healthcare System of the Republic of Uzbekistan for 2019-2025, explanatory work was carried out among women. After that, the participants received answers to all their questions from specialists.
