

Memory is eternal - sacred virtue

Man is alive by memory. It is our sacred duty to remember the departed, their glorious deeds, the courage and courage of the heroes, to honor them. Honoring the memory of thousands of our compatriots who died on the battlefields of World War II, showing respect and care for our veterans who returned from the war, selfless people who endured on their shoulders all the hardships of those harsh days has become real national value.

On the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the victory, the Institute's leadership, together with the primary trade union organization, visited a group of war and labor veterans and presented them with gifts. Veterans expressed gratitude to the leadership of the institute for their attention.
